

MEMORANDUM

To: Graham Allison, James Smith
From: Timothy Sandole
Date: February 11, 2013
Subject: 6/10/13-6/14/13 Weekly Wikipedia Research

Monday, June 10

- Researched recent bilateral summit between Barack Obama and Xi Jinping at Sunnylands estate in California (8 hours).

Tuesday, June 11

- Wrote draft, edited draft, and authored/coded draft text in Sino-American relations Wikipedia page. I wrote on historic summit between Xi Jinping and Barack Obama at Sunnylands estate in California. Contributed over 3,000 bytes of new information (8 hours).
- http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sino-American_relations#Obama_administration

Wednesday, June 12

- Researched cybersecurity proposed legislation, executive orders, and existing regulation in the United States. Drafted Wikipedia contribution, edited it, and then coded/authored contribution on Cybersecurity Regulation Wikipedia page (8 hours).
- http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Cyber-security_regulation

Thursday, June 13

- Researched the workings of the Senate Select Intelligence Committee, NSA leaker/whistle blower Anthony Snowden, Church Committee hearings of 1975 (which reigned in activities of U.S. intelligence community), and statements by head of NSA and Cybercommand, Keith Alexander (8 hours).

Friday, June 14

- Unfortunately, events are moving too quickly to edit NSA Wikipedia-related pages (a lot of dispute pages are popping up). Reverted back to Sino-American relations and coded/authored further analysis emanating from Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS) and The Economist on the recent Sunnylands Summit (8 hours).
- http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sino-American_relations#Obama_administration

For Next Week: Staying focused on Asia and a book titled, Return of the Dragon: Rising China and Regional Security by Danny Roy, who makes case that the United States and China should not focus on trust, but verification. Also want to reengage NSA/Snowden/PRISM pages, but only if the Wikipedia debates have died down.